

Agriculture & Forestry Today with Commissioner Bob Odom

The Department of Agriculture and Forestry has instituted a number of precautions to prevent avian influenza from occurring in Louisiana, Commissioner of Agriculture and Forestry Bob Odom said.

Avian influenza is a disease in birds that is rarely contracted by humans but can affect wild as well as domestic bird populations.

"Our primary concern is our poultry industry which is upwards of $500 million in economic impact in our state every year,"

Odom said.

"I want to stress we don't have it. We are unlikely to get it. But in an abundance of caution we are beginning a series of steps to make certain we don't get it," Odom said.

Although there have been previous outbreaks of avian influenza around the world, most notably in 1983-84 and 1997, the most recent outbreak last year in South Korea, China, Indonesia, Japan, Laos, Vietnam, Cambodia and Thailand is a new strain of the disease.

The new strain is a particularly virulent form of the disease and mutates rapidly.

Through mid-2004 more than 100 million birds in the affected countries have either died or were killed in order to control the outbreak.

Steps currently underway in Louisiana include:

♦Poultry from areas of the world with serious strains of avian influenza (bird flu) are prohibited from entering the United States, and all commercial poultry entering Louisiana from other states must originate from certified influenza-free flocks.

♦The department's Office of Animal Health Services has veterinarians trained in foreign animal disease diagnosis. These veterinarians are very familiar with the signs and symptoms of the disease.

♦Backyard flocks and game fowl owners are encouraged to practice strict biosecurity measures. Biosecurity measures can be found on the department's website at www.ldaf.state.la.us.

♦Veterinarians are required to report suspected cases of avian influenza to the State Veterinarian. Quarantine and other emergency plans are in place to eradicate such a disease as quickly as possible if avian influenza is detected.

Clinical signs in sick birds include swelling of the comb and wattles, coughing, sneezing and nasal discharge. Neurological signs may be present. Sudden death is also seen. If one suspects that a bird or a flock is sick they can contact the State Veterinarian at (225) 925-3980.

Did You Know:

The Boll Weevil Eradication Program began in 1997 along the Red River in northwest Louisiana. The final phase along the Mississippi River was begun in 1999.

In its initial phase each area was intensively treated for five years to eliminate the boll weevil after which a maintenance program was begun to ensure that no more weevils were found. That is the phase of the program still in effect.

Recently, the Boll Weevil Eradication Commission met to kick off the 2005 boll weevil eradication season.

Department of Agriculture and Forestry Boll Weevil Eradication Program officials and commission members emphasized the importance of stalk destruction during the meeting. All cotton stalks must be destroyed every year by December 31 because boll weevils can live through mild winters.

"Out of 500,000 acres of cotton only 1,000 acres of stalks were not destroyed on time," Commissioner Bob Odom said. "During the meeting, USDA's national coordinator for boll weevil eradication commended Louisiana producers for having the best compliance with stalk destruction."

Ridding the state of the costly boll weevil has reduced pesticide applications for producers by as much as 80 percent.

"Producers overwhelmingly approved the maintenance phase and the fee associated with it 18 months ago. That tells me the program is a success and they are pleased with the results they're seeing," Odom said.

Producers and cotton specialists estimate about 600,000 acres of cotton will be planted in 2005. The Louisiana cotton industry is valued at between $350 to $500 million annually, depending on acres planted and the selling price of cotton.

The boll weevil, one of the most destructive insects ever in U.S. agriculture, entered the United States through Texas from Mexico in 1892. By 1903, it had made its way to western Louisiana. In 1919, it arrived in North Carolina, making its sweep through the South complete.

Sensational Strawberry Recipes

Turkey Sandwiches with Blue Cheese & Strawberries

1/4 cup mayonnaise	4 oz. blue cheese, crumbled
1 tbsp. finely minced chives	4 to 6 large strawberries, thinly sliced
1/2 tsp. sugar
1/4 tsp. freshly ground pepper	12 oz. sliced cooked turkey
8 slices sourdough bread

In a small bowl, stir together mayonnaise, chives, sugar and pepper. Evenly sprinkle 4 slices of bread with cheese; arrange strawberries over cheese. Top each sandwich with one-fourth of the turkey. Spread each of the 4 remaining bread slices with one-fourth of the chive mayonnaise; place over turkey. Cut sandwiches in half.

Strawberry Margarita Freeze

1/2 cup crushed pretzels	1 1/3 cups orange juice
1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter, melted	1 cup crushed strawberries
1 pkg. (8 oz.) cream cheese, softened	1 tub (8 oz.) whipped topping, thawed
3/4 cup sugar

Mix pretzels and butter; press firmly into bottom of 9-inch springform pan. Beat cream cheese and sugar in large bowl with electric mixer on medium speed until well blended. Gradually add orange juice, beating well after each addition. Stir in crushed strawberries. Add whipped topping; stir with wire whisk until well blended. Pour over crust. Freeze several hours or until firm. Remove from freezer; let stand in refrigerator about 15 minutes before cutting into 16 slices to serve. Store leftover dessert in freezer. Garnish with halved fresh strawberries just before serving.
